The family game

A field hockey-like game was first played in Greece around 300 BC, where players hit a ball with horn 'sticks'. Over the centuries similar games were played worldwide and it became known as 'the game played with sticks'. The word Hockey itself origins from the english word 'Hook'.

Modern hockey found it's way in the early 19th century through English public schools, where it was played on natural grass. The striking circle was introduced and and the rubber cube was replaced by a ball. Since the early 70's artificial hockey turf changed the game drastically by gaining speed. The last decades hockey developed more and more as the sport played and enjoyed by all generations and the entire family.

COMBINING SAND DRESSED CHARACTERISTICS WITH WATER BASE ESTEHTICS

From the introduction water base as well as sand filled hockey surfaces, there has been a demand for hockey surfaces offering the best of both. With the introduction of our Edel ID. system for water based hockey fields, also the opportunity came to offer a sand filled system in which the sand was visibly hidden. We called it Edel ID. Sand obscured, combining the characteristics of a traditional sand dressed field with the esthetics of a water based field.
